ANOTHER MADERO KILLED

Brother of Former Mexican President Meets Death

TELEGRAPH LINES CUT

By Rebels in Coahuila Who are Still Active—No Danger of Texas Invasion."

Washington, Feb. 26.—With prospects of armed opposition to the new government in Mexico reduced to a few small threatened uprisings by followers of the late President Madero, it is the opinion of the administration officials here that chances for the use of the military arm to protect American interests have greatly diminished.

The concentration of troops at Galveston will continue, but admittedly the purpose is now principally to test the working of the new system of army reorganization.

Major General Carter, commander of the Second division, due to arrive in Galveston within the next 25 hours, will take the opportunity afforded by the assembly of a complete division of troops to put them through their paces, thus affording the various regimental and brigade commanders practically their first opportunity to direct the movement of large bodies of men that would fall to their command in time of war.

Secretary Stimson feels very proud of the record made up to this point.

Mexico City, Feb. 26.—It was decided last night to call an extraordinary meeting of the cabinet on Thursday for the purpose of appointing a Mexican ambassador to Washington. The appointee will likely be Senor Covarrubias, former charge d'affaires at Washington.

The whole state of Agua Caliente is reported in an uproar, but the government is loyal to Huerta.

Minister of Gobernacion Granados announces that all states are loyal except Tabasco and Campeche.

A dispatch received by El Universal from Torreon says that Emilio Madero, a brother of Francisco Madero, the murdered former president of Mexico, was taken prisoner by the federal troops and killed. With an escort of 35 men, Madero, it is said, was attempting to join the rebels holding Laredo when he was overtaken by troops sent by General Trevino.

The reports do not indicate whether Madero was killed in action or was executed.

The shooting of Madero took place between Villadama and Bustamante.

As the rebel leaders in the Laredo district, Geronomo Villareal, is a partisan of General Trevino, the government expects that the trouble in that vicinity soon will be adjusted.

Emilio Madero, in conjunction with his brother Raoul, a few days ago began a revolution at San Pedro, in the state of Coahuila, in the expectation of uniting the rebels about Saltillo with those in the Laredo district.

Hope for immediate peace in Mexico is slight. Rebel activity in the North has increased, and the government's efforts to enter into arrangements with the Zapatistas appear to have failed.

Whether the rebels, whose center is the state of Coahuila, have increased numerically is not generally known, but they have so conducted their operations already that communication with the frontier has been stopped, that region between Laredo and San Luis Potosi being practically isolated.

In the South the Zapatistas continue burning and raiding and an attack on a military train between Oaxaca and Mexico City leaves little doubt as to their attitude toward the new administration. The attack was of the ordinary ambush type. The train was stopped by a burned-out bridge and the fighting continued for more than two hours.

Reports from the state of Morelos indicate that the work of destruction during the last 24 hours has been more complete than is ordinarily undertaken by the rebels.

To offset the antagonism of the Zapatistas, however, the government believes there will be no difficulty in concluding arrangements for peace with Jose Andrew Almazan and Julio Radill, the two most prominent leaders in the state of Guerrero. Nor is there much doubt felt that arrangements can be made by the government agents sent to El Paso with representatives of Orozco's army.

Benjamin Argumedo, Cheche Camacho and the two Orozcos, the most valiant leaders, it is announced here, have expressed willingness to co-operate. Their field chiefly has been the district about Torreon, and if the expected arrangements are made it is not improbable that they may be employed in combating the elements of the new revolution centered in Coahuila.

The official closing of the port of Laredo was the first public intimation here that the government regarded the rebels to the north of Monterrey as unfriendly to the new regime. It has been stated officially that Venustiano Carranza, governor of Coahuila, has decided to abandon his antagonistic attitude, but hope of this has greatly diminished and the cutting of the National railroad between San Luis Potosi and Saltillo, and between San Luis and Tampico, indicates that the government has much work before it can subjugate the rebels.

Representatives of Geneveo De La O, reckoned the fiercest and most bloodthirsty of the Zapatista leaders, have submitted to the department of the interior a basis for an agreement on which the forces under him will surrender.

It is learned that all the private papers, stock certificates and insurance policies of Gustave Madero are locked up in the vaults of the American embassy.

The significance of the present situation was pointed out yesterday in an editorial by Paul Hudson in the Mexican Herald. The efforts of the present government, he said, represent the last chance the Mexicans will have to settle their own difficulties themselves.

"We believe that the present government," he wrote, "is as strong an organization as could be chosen today to take hold of the country's tangled affairs and straighten them out." We believe that the men of the new regime understand fully the urgent necessities of the situation and will not hesitate to enforce a rigorous policy of pacification that alone will save the country."

Vera Cruz, Feb. 26.—Charges crediting as false the protestations of allegiance made to the new administration by General Velasco, military commander of Vera Cruz, were sent to Provisional President Huerta today. The charges are expected to result in an immediate change in the military command here.

It is expected that Jose Diaz Ordaz, who was an adherent of Felix Diaz at the time of the first revolt, will be named as successor to General Velasco, who will be transferred to a post in the interior.

LIQUOR LICENSE MEASURE

Will be Presented by the Subcommittee to-night

AGREEMENTS ON COMPROMISE

Mayors Win First Heat in Battle for Bill to Remove Police Chiefs.

Columbus, O., Feb. 26.—After much delay, the subcommittee of the legislature which was assigned the task of drafting a liquor license bill, finished its task last night. It unanimously agreed upon a compromise measure, which the members hope will be successful to both wets and drys. The bill will be presented to the full joint committee tonight and the request made that it be reported into the senate tomorrow with recommendation for passage.

A clause has been inserted which states that nothing in the measure shall affect the enforcement of any existing local option law. Present laws regulating sales to minors are retained.

Deputy county licensing boards are to be appointed by the state board, but appointments must have the approval of the governor. The maximum salary for county deputies has been raised from $4000 to $5000 a year, subject to approval by the governor, also.

A licensee charged with violation of the law is to be tried in the municipality or township where he has his place of business. Bootleggers will be tried where offenses are committed.

One provision, aimed at Kentucky or West Virginia citizens who might want to cross the river and do a temporary business along the levee, prohibits the issuing of a license to any person who has not been a resident of the state for a year.

Democratic mayors, Karb in particular, who are not on good terms with their Republican chiefs of police, won the first heat in the "chief of police eliminating" contest yesterday when the senate committee on municipal affairs reported the bill by Senator Jung of Hamilton county for passage. The measure seeks to repeat that section under which the supreme court ruled that Mayor Karb could not summarily dismiss Chief Carter.

Mayor Newton D. Baker of Cleveland is feeling urgent necessity for such action in order to rid his administration of Chief Kohler. Fire chiefs are put in the category with police heads.

The two Republican members of the committee, Senators McDermott of Trumbull and Moore of Jefferson, voted against reporting the bill.

Debate on the Green compulsory compensation bill was begun by the lower House today. Friends of the bill claimed 95 votes for its passage in present form and declared sentiment was so strong that the bill could not be amended. Should the bill be passed it will be rushed through the House of Representatives and will be up again probably by Friday.

Mayor Newton D. Baker of Cleveland was offered one of the cabinet portfolios but refused it because he has great projects in mind for the city of Cleveland and preferred to remain free for their completion.

Judge Davis, who pronounced the sentences, said he would order further investigation into charges against Wm. A. Brown and Lou Fomerine.

FOUR NAMED FOR CABINET SAYS REPORT

Washington, Feb. 26.—Woodrow Wilson definitely has decided upon four members of his cabinet, it is stated positively today in congressional quarters closely identified with the incoming administration. The state is as follows:

Secretary of state, William J. Bryan of Nebraska.

Secretary of the treasury, William G. McAdoo of New York.

Postmaster general, Albert S. Burleson of Texas.

Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.

Information from other sources gave assurances that Col. George W. Goethals, chief engineer and chairman of the Panama canal commission, is under consideration for secretary of war.

Mr. McAdoo, in the recent campaign was a prominent figure and was in charge of the Democratic forces much of the time during the illness of National Chairman McCombs. He built the so-called McAdoo tunnels under the Hudson River in New York.

Josephus Daniels of Raleigh, N. C., has long been Democratic national committeeman from his state. He is the editor of the Raleigh News and Observer. In the last Cleveland administration, Mr. Daniels was in Washington as chief clerk and appointment clerk of the interior department under Secretary Hoke Smith, now senator from Georgia.

Representative Burleson of Austin, Texas, has served nearly fifteen years in congress, having been first elected to the Fifty-sixth congress and he was re-elected to the Sixty-third congress last fall.

Some published reports including the name of Chancellor E. L. Walker of New Jersey, as attorney general, was fatally scalded and crushed. D. Culp of New Albany, fireman, was seriously bruised.

Tull died in a hospital shortly before noon.

NEW CURE BROUGHT BY PHYSICIAN

U. S. Government Gives Recognition to Friedmann Claim

TO TEST THE BACILLI

Which the German brought over with him on the Kron Prinzessin Cecile.

New York, Feb. 26.—The United States government took official recognition of the claim of Dr. Frederick F. Friedmann to the discovery of a cure of tuberculosis, when, by the order of the surgeon general, a physician on the United States marine hospital service, Dr. Milton H. Foster, was sent to meet the young German physician on his arrival here yesterday aboard the steamship Kron Prinzessin Cecile.

At the request of the government surgeon, Dr. Friedmann, after half an hour's conference aboard the steamship on the trip up from quarantine, consented to turn over a quantity of the bacilli to be tested by the government and to demonstrate the efficiency of his cure before physicians of the hospital service. He agreed to meet a laboratory expert of the government in this city on Thursday to arrange for the demonstration, which will be tried on tuberculosis patients.

Dr. Friedmann, who comes to this country at the invitation of Charles E. Finlay, a New York banker, who hopes the physician will be able to cure his son-in-law of the disease, declared last night that his remedy was not a secret, and that he purposed to make known to all the world the method by which it was created and the manner in which it was administered. It consisted of bacilli taken from a turtle into which tubercular bacilli from a human being had been injected, he explained.

Dr. Friedmann denied that he had been offered $1,000,000 by Mr. Finlay if he would cure 95 out of 100 patients in this country. He admitted that he was to receive a substantial compensation in the event that he cured the banker's son-in-law, Ray Paris of this city.

"I am not mercenary," he said. "All I care about is sufficient reward to enable me to demonstrate my cure to the world."

Dr. Friedmann, who was accompanied by an assistant and a private secretary, was met at the pier by Mr. Finlay and taken as his guest to a banquet last night at the Lotus Club. The surgeon brings a quantity of the serum with him, which he expects to administer to the banker's son-in-law today.

Old Woman Buys Clock For Village Church In Husband's Memory.

Geneva.—In the church at Bremerton, in the canton of Argovia, a clock that cost $4,100 has just been placed, the gift of an old woman who labored for fifty years to save the money to pay for it. The clock has been put in the steeple of the church, and when it was installed all the officials of the village took part in the ceremony.

The old woman who gave the clock is seventy six years of age. Her husband died when she was twenty-four. She was then the village beauty, but instead of marrying again—her husband had left her penniless—she earned her own living by working as a household servant or in the fields.

She toiled for half a century and obtained the reputation among the villagers of being a miser. The object of her self denial was revealed when she presented the clock as a memorial of her husband to the village, and now instead of being an object of ridicule, she is the heroine of the place.

ABDUL HAMID'S QUEER PRIZE.

Ex-Sultan Gets $26,000 In Will to Build Peace Temple.

Berlin.—Abdul Hamid, ex-sultan of Turkey, comes into possession of $26,000 given him by a German admirer for the purpose of erecting a temple of peace in Constantinople. Of all men in the world Abdul would probably be the last to lay the cornerstone for such an edifice.

Two years ago at Leipzig a curious old man of the name of Zeller died, leaving his fortune, $26,000, to the ex-sultan with the above stipulation. He evidently had forgotten that he had a niece in very poor circumstances, who was just able to make her living by her work. She brought suit to break the will, but the supreme court of Leipzig ruled against her. The ex-sultan gets the money then, and one wonders when he will lay the first stone of his temple of universal peace.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S VIEWS

One of the most remarkable books ever issued is the volume containing the views and policies of Governor Woodrow Wilson. Coming just before his inauguration as President the book will be much consulted in the four years to come by those who want to know what the President thinks on number of things; for instance on trusts, on monopolies, on finance, on the initiative referendum and recall; on the restoration of equal opportunities to the people by preventing the big combinations of capital from illegally restricting competition. The President-elect has put forth a really valuable work which every American will feel impelled to know about. It is partly composed of addresses by Gov. Wilson and it was edited and put together by William Bayard Hale, whose able literary work has brought him very rapidly before the reading public in the past few years.

Porfirio Diaz reflects that it is not nearly so hot in Egypt as it is in Mexico.

Madero would have been alive now if he had shot Felix Diaz when he had him in his power.

George Washington would be interested to know that a New York clergyman says he was not a Tory.

Philadelphia Record: "The great newspapers that did such grand work for the election of Woodrow Wilson are of one accord in condemning efforts of certain Democratic office-seekers to parse out public patronage by the 'understanding' of machine-committees after the manner of the Republican leaders who brought their party to ruin."

HIS KIND.

Hamlin—"Why told me to be home early, as she said something she wants to talk to me about?"

Bugs—A girl apparently wants to talk to the boy, so nothing she hasn't got—"Oh, no, now."

Queer Bits From India.

In "Orient and Southern Seas of Southern India" Edgar Thurston, the author, says:

"On one occasion, when I was at camp at Coimbatore, one of the officers, being afraid of my evil eye, refused to fire a new kilo of brass for the new club-chambers until I had gone en my departure. On another occasion I caught hold of a ladie to show my friend Dr. Rivers what were the fragrant contents of a pot in which an odd woman was cooking the evening meal. On returning from a walk we heard a great noise proceeding from the odd woman, who had meanwhile returned from work, and found the woman seated apart on a rock and sobbing. She had been excommunicated not because I touched the ladie, but because she had afterward touched the pot."

Coshocton After Two New Factories

Coshocton, W. Va.—Representatives of an east Palestine pottery are taking extensive investigation in this city and a party of men visited the city recently to look over the ground. W. C. Swift, inventor of a new type of kiln, also came out to see for the first time, and the press.

OUR WONDERFUL EYES.

Is there anything so wonderful as the eye? No matter how cold the weather may be, the eye never fails. In the wildest of blizzards, when the thermometer registers many degrees below zero, when the feet and fingers freeze, when the throat freezes, when even the torso, swathed in sweaters and chandlins skin vestments, freezes; when the nose and ears are frost bitten, when the hair even crackles in the blast—when all is lost completely, the eyes suffer no pain, but continue to perform their normal functions. The people of the most inclement, most frigid regions of the extreme north bundle up everything but their eyes. The eyes are never frostbitten. They seem to suffer only in a strong wind which carries in its current some irritating substance. And yet, notwithstanding this, the eyes are the most sensitive of our several organs.

FIRST THINGS

The first of the several terrible earthquakes from which Lisbon has suffered occurred 302 years ago today, February 26, 1755. Fifteen hundred houses, comprising the greater part of the Portuguese city, fell into ruins, and 30,000 persons were killed. A number of neighboring towns suffered the same fate. During the following two centuries the city was frequently shaken by seismic disturbances, but another great calamity of this kind did not come until 1775, when the city was almost instantly reduced into a heap of rubbish. In less than eight minutes most of the houses and over 50,000 inhabitants were swallowed up while streets were buried. The cities of Oporto, Braga and others also suffered terribly. In Spain, a large part of the Malaga became ruins, and in Morocco the city of Fez was destroyed and 12,000 Arabs perished. Half of the island of Madeira was laid waste. Since the catastrophe, one of the most terrible of its kind in modern times, Lisbon has suffered several minor quakes. In 1772 the city was almost wiped out by fire. A number of buildings went to testify forcibly of the great earthquake.

Water Filtration.

Some Paris experiments in treating filtered water with ozone and ultra-violet rays have given interesting results. The bactericidal action of ultra-violet rays is very powerful. To separate the ultra-violet rays from the red, green and yellow ones the mercury vapor lamp in transparent quartz intended for illumination was employed. The system devised by M. Victor Héren, M. de Roehmhausen and André Fleury is not a very simple process requiring apparatus and machinery. A start can be made, however, especially on the work, which is bactericidally to speak. If the electric current is adequately interrupted an automatic switch opens the conduct and empties the water which has not undergone sterilizing action. The operation of this apparatus is economical as was shown in the results of a competition held by the city of Marseilles.

DON'T SAY YOU CAN'T EAT

You'll Never Have Stomach Trouble After You Read This, and Act On It. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Are the Open Secret.

Thousands of people who hadn't enjoyed a meal for years have taken Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They promptly put an end to flatulence, heartburn, indigestion, sick headaches, dyspepsia, burning sensations, constipation, and other ills attendant upon a disordered stomach.

The Stomach Sends a Message to the Brain the Instant There Is Trouble.

In this day and age of known facts there is absolutely no excuse for anyone to suffer with stomach trouble. Ingestion, sour risings, catch of the stomach, sour risings, catch of the stomach, formations, etc.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are composed of known and approved digestants that help out the gastric tubes of the stomach. They are Nature's digestives, the same kind the stomach uses when it is in good health.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not merely aid digestion—they actually digest the food themselves. All the hard work is thus taken off the stomach and it gets a chance to rest and recuperate. The eating and food which formerly produced nauseating gases in the stomach become thoroughly digested and as a result provides new blood and "brown" and nerve cells to replace natural waste always going on.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act quickly, safely and naturally, just like Nature herself. They are a familiar and standard part of the stock of every properly equipped drug store and are sold at 10c a box.

Those who eat Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are never at a loss to know how to overcome any form of indigestion or stomach trouble.

INTEREST IN NEW GAS.

Does Not Fall Into Any Place In Present Grouping of Elements.

London.—The announcement made by Sir Joseph J. Thomson that he had discovered a new gas which is an element of thrice the atomic weight of hydrogen, the lightest element known, has been received with intense interest by chemists.

The new gas appears to belong to the same group as helium, neon, argon, krypton and xenon, all of which are found in minute quantities in the air and which have the peculiar property of complete inertness, so they do not form chemical combinations.

Sir Joseph Thomson's gas, which he calls provisionally "X3," does not fall into any place in the present grouping of the elements, according to their properties and atomic weights. The same difficulty arose when helium, neon, argon, krypton and xenon were discovered, but it was surmounted by the creation of a new group into which they all fall.

SAYS MARS IS INHABITED.

Professor Henderson of Harvard Thinks Life Exists There.

Boston.—Professor Lawrence J. Henderson of Harvard, a scholar of profound scientific attainments, indorses to a certain extent the world known views of Professor Percival Lowell that the planet Mars is inhabited.

Professor Henderson says the abstract considerations support Professor Lowell so far as they indicate that there is no reason why life should not exist upon Mars.

"There are certain characteristics of earth which may be regarded as specific," he says. "There were great quantities of water and carbonic acid in the soil before it formed. The result will be general of any planet tending to form oceans, lakes and streams. Wherever such a process exists life, if it once gets a foothold, can exist."

"PASS THE BUCK" SENATE PASTIME

Next Administration Gets Hard Problems.

MEASURES ARE PASSED OVER

Public Building Bill and Various Liquor Bills Are Being Bequeathed to Succeeding Legislators—Prohibition Amendment For District of Columbia Feted—Veterans in Congress.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Feb. 26 (Special).—It was one of the western writers, familiar with the game, however, who put forth something about the "gentle art of passing the buck," applying it to a condition that confronted people in a new country. Just now we may see an effort on the part of members of congress to "pass the buck."

This applies to the Republicans rather than Democrats. As far as the Republicans are able they are passing everything over to the new administration. Every once awhile we hear of some bitterly contested measure, and it is followed by the suggestion that it would be well to pass it over until after March 4.

Measures Full of Trouble.

"Why don't they let that immigration bill go over until Wilson is president and the Democrats are in control?" asked a wise Republican. "If I had my way I would put over every measure with dynamite if it until the next administration, and that includes the immigration bill. I don't know of a more dangerous measure."

Then there is the public building bill, which the president has been advised to veto on account of its extravagance.

And yet that is a bill which passed the house without a yea and nay vote because one-fifth of the membership did not want a record vote.

The various liquor bills are among those which Republicans think should be held up and left to the Democrats. The Works-Jones bill has been kept in the house committee for nearly a year because the committee fears that if it is brought out a prohibition amendment for the District of Columbia will be attached to it. "This house will vote for any prohibition measure proposed," remarked a man who knows.

Old Soldiers Active.

Several years ago, about the time General Gordon of Mississippi, the picturesque old gentleman who was the delight of everybody who knew him, came to the seat, I wrote a little story about the passing of the old soldier. I said that General Gordon was the last man of civil war service who would be sent to the senate, but I did not know.

Since then they have sent Thornton of Louisiana, Works of California, Webb of Tennessee and Catron of New Mexico, and perhaps some other old soldier may be honored with a seat in the senate if opportunity comes. Those men of the civil war seem mighty strong and well preserved. And some of the best of us may go wrong in our predictions where the personal equation cuts a big figure.

Religion and Politics.

If there is anything that members of congress do not like it is the injection of religious questions into politics. So it was quite natural that a committee of the house should throw out of court the demand of a man in Pennsylvania that Thomas S. Butler of that state should be removed from the house because religious issues were injected into the campaign.

The man asserted he had been defeated because Butler had been proclaimed as Quaker while he (the opponent) had been proclaimed a Catholic.

This was getting into deep water on the religious question, and the house promptly decided to lay the petition on the table and sit down further action.

Butler is one of the most popular members of the house. He may be of Quaker ancestry, but he long ago passed the "persecuted" stage of Quaker training.

As a member of the naval committee he is for safety of big ships.

An Old Friend.

An old family friend appeared among the bills reproduced recently. It was to prevent the desecration of the American flag, which means that the flag shall not be used for advertising purposes or anything else except as an emblem.

The old timer, according to his bill, is not a very simple character, requiring no special education.

IF YOUR LIVER IS INACTIVE AND BOWELS WASTE-CLOGGED

Delicious "Syrup of Figs" removes the sour bile, foul gases and waste from the system without gripes or nausea—Regulates your 30 feet of bowels.

Primitive folks did not need laxatives. They lived outdoors, ate plenty of fruit, and all of their food was coarse. We modern people are different. We exercise too little, eat little fruit, and our food is too fine—too rich.

We simply can't have our ten yards of bowels clogged up, liver choked with sour bile and stomach full of foul effete matter and feel well. It means that the food and waste retained in the stomach and thirty feet of bowel ferment—decays. The decay creates poisons, gases and acids, and those poisons are sucked into the blood through the very ducts intended to suck in the nutriment. Then we have sick headache, become dull, bilious, tongue coated, nervous, meals don't digest, and we feel miserable all over. So we must make our choice.

We must live like primitive folks, else we must take artificial means to move the excess bile and waste matter on and out of the system.

The safest, most harmless and effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator for men, women and children—is delicious Syrup of Figs, which doesn't irritate, gripes or weaken. It is composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics. Don't think you are drugging yourself. Syrup of Figs can be constantly used without harm.

Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and see on the label that it is prepared by The California Fig Syrup company. This is the only genuine—the old reliable. Refuse, with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrup imitations sometimes offered to deceive you.

DARKEN GRAY OR FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

It's Grandmother's Recipe for Dandruff and Restoring Color to Hair.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and trouble-some.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their agent own but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well known down-town druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever. Few Flies In Bohemia.

Bohemia is singularly free from flies in most of the dining rooms in Prague during the course of a meal perhaps three or four flies appear during the season. In restaurants there are very few flies. There screen doors to keep out flies and other insects are unknown. The buildings are all constructed of brick, stone or concrete. The docks along the river front are of granite. The pavements and sidewalks are made of granite blocks. There are no wooden sidewalks, stairways or buildings in the city. Decayed vegetable or animal matter is not openly exposed to flies and the streets are frequently cleaned during each day. There are no open drains in the city to attract and breed flies. The absence of flies can only be ascribed to the lack of breeding places

Banking the Fire.

Banking the fire is a very simple process. It is easier to bank a fire than to bank anything else we know of. We have not been able to bank anything excepting a fire for several years. Place the ashes in the flour sifter and thus sprinkle them carefully over the coals—three teacupsful for a small furnace, the kind that goes out every five minutes, and five teacupsful for one of the battleship variety. Close all of the drafts or leave all of them open, as you choose, turn out the gas in the basement, lock the kitchen door, take your dose of family tea, wind the clock, put out the cat and go to bed. If these directions are followed faithfully you will in the morning find one of two conditions—the fire will be going or it will be out—Boston Globe.

CHAT WITH THINKING WOMEN by Barbara Boyd

Woman's Joyous Future

In a recent book on "Woman and Social Progress," the author, a professor in one of our leading universities, says: "Woman, today stands at the parting of the ways. The old world of subjection and dependence lies behind her; before her, opens the new world of individual development and achievement. Her opportunities for training have never been equalled; her opportunities for activity are daily enlarging. Foremost in opportunity, the American woman may also stand foremost in achievement."

It seems almost as if that future is already here. Mrs. Belmont, a leader in the woman's cause, says:

"Women are today engaged in every walk of life, and they acquitted themselves creditably in every calling. Twenty years ago, districts that are now filled with women employed as clerks, stenographers, and typewriters were seldom visited by women. In those days, men stared when they saw an untrained woman in Wall Street; in those days, they pass unnoticed. The sex line is wiped out. The sex atmosphere will soon be a thing of the past. Mentality and worth will dominate; and woman will be regarded for what she really is—a factor in our economic and industrial life."

"In place of trivialities between men and women, there will be human comradeship; in the place of weakness, incapability, different levels of thought and feeling, there will be real sympathy, appreciation, understanding, and mental co-operation. There will cease to be the eternal bar or barrier of sex."

"When sex ceases to make an abyss that cannot be bridged and the rights of both sexes are the same, woman will stand free, her chains and shackles loose and fallen at her feet. She will rise above the standard of yesterday and today, for the weight of old customs and old forms no longer weigh her down."

"This spark of freedom will kindle, in this woman and that woman, until it will illuminate the entire sex and she will hasten to part with fads and primitive illusions, and rise with dignity to play the new game, fair and true."

It is a very bright future, is it not, painted by these two prominent leaders of thought of today, one a man, the other a woman—and thus not a one-sided prophecy inspired by the desire of the thing wanted. But it is the result of calm study and clear reasoning; by the one, of economics and social evolution, by the other, of actual conditions. But by the two roads both come to the same ending.

And woman herself who is in the thick of the fray, when the smoke clears away and she can see the progress she is making, knows she is on the road to the goal.

And it is so glorious to feel absolute freedom to do the work one wishes to do in the world, to develop one's individuality in whatever direction one may please, to be free of criticism, convention, and prejudice, that one ought not only to be grateful to those who have labored to break the shackles, but ought also to help, heart and soul, to free all women from the fetters that may still remain.

Barbara Boyd.

TODAY'S BEAUTY RECIPES.

By Mme. D'Mille.

The best hair remover I know is a simple paste made by mixing powdered delatone with a little water. Cover hairs with this paste, leave on two or three minutes, dip in warm water, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone.

"Mother's Salve" is an old-time household remedy that can be bought in ready prepared form at most drug stores. Take a piece of stout brown paper, wrap it around over night, heat it over a fire, quick to act and relieves earache, croup, sore throat, etc.

"The Vaucluse" home treatment for developing the bust is prepared by mixing 1/2 cupful of sugar, 1/2 cupful of water and a pint of hot water into which is stirred an ounce of gallop. Two teaspoons before meals accelerates the blood's circulation and the underlying tissues gradually assume their true proportion.

To correct dark, muddy or sallow complexions, apply in the morning a lotion made by dissolving one-half ounce of matavone in a half pint of witch hazel. This treatment makes the skin smooth, clear and prevents the growth of hair. It will not rub off or show like powder.

"Never use the comb or brush belonging to another person, for the parasites that cause falling hair and baldness are easily contracted by sharing brushes." Shampoo removes these parasites and restores dry, brittle and faded hair to a glossy, fluffy condition. You can buy Mother's Shampoo from your druggist for 25 cents a package of ten shampoos.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Little Princess Who Ran Away

ONE morning daddy read in his newspaper about a little princess who was the only child of her father and mother, a king and queen, and how much they loved her. That made him think of the story of the little princess who ran away one day, so that evening he told it to Evelyn and Jack.

"This little princess," he began, "had no little sisters or brothers to play with, so she found it very lonesome in the big palace in which she lived, though she was surrounded by ... sorts of beautiful things and had lots and lots of servants to look after her. Her daddy and her mother, being king and queen, had many things to do, so they could not spend much of their time with the little princess."

"Didn't he tell her any bedtime stories, daddy?" asked Jack.

"I'm afraid not," answered daddy, with a smile. "Well, it happened one day that the little princess found herself on the edge of the palace garden with no one near her. Her nurse and the other servants had gone off to talk to some soldiers who were on guard. So little Princess Anne just gave one leap around and, quick as a wisk, ran through the palace garden gate and out on the highway. The guards were too busy talking with the maids to notice her, and she was quite a long way off before any one missed her. Then there was a search and much running up and down.

"But Little Princess Anne didn't know or care. She had found a little shelter that led away from the highway, and down it she went, humming a tune. Soon she found herself in front of a little farmhouse, where she saw a number of children, all about her own age, playing in the farmyard. The princess, being used to ordering her servants about, was not at all shy, so she entered the gate and asked the children to let her play with them. At first they were ashamed, because the stranger had such nice clothes, but the princess was a friendly little girl, and they soon became friends.

"What good times she had that day! Princess Anne remembered all her life, and she often told about them when she grew up and became a queen. They made mud pies and chased the lickers and peeked down the well trying to see how deep it was. The children's mother called them after a time for luncheon and was surprised to see the little stranger. She knew, of course, that Princess Anne belonged to wealthy folks and asked her where she lived, but the princess was a wise little one and would not tell, because she did not want to be taken back to the lonesome palace. It was even more before the searchers found her. When she told the king and queen what a fine time she had they said she might ask her new friends sometimes to the palace."
